

Risk Frontiers— RF – Stockholm – 'Emerging risk, risk regulation and market dynamics in the Nordics' seminar

In association with

Dear Colleague

We are delighted to invite you to Commercial Risk Europe's Risk Frontiers - 'Emerging risk, risk regulation and market dynamics in the Nordics' seminar, which takes place on 20 November at The Clarion Hotel, Stockholm.

Following the success of last year's inaugural seminar Commercial Risk Europe has once again teamed up with SWERMA, the Swedish risk management association, for an intensive and targeted examination of the issues arising from recent Commercial Risk Europe surveys of risk and insurance managers.

The main topics covered by this year's event will be:

- * The state of the corporate insurance market in the Nordic region. This session will ask where rates are headed, whether there is adequate capacity for corporate insurance buyers, in what areas customers would like to see improvements in coverage and how global programmes could and should be improved;
- * The evolving European and Swedish regulatory landscape. This session will focus on Solvency II, the future of the captive and developments in risk reporting, disclosure and sanctions at the European and international level;
- * The evolving risk landscape. This session will in particular focus on two emerging risk sets that are currently top of the corporate risk management agenda in the Nordic region and worldwide: Cyber and political risk.

This highly topical and challenging event is free to attend for all corporate risk and insurance managers.

We hope you can join us and we look forward to welcoming you on 20 November.

Sincerely

Adrian Ladbury
